

Intersection between features & advantages

1. Linkage

“Unlike the traditional approach, modular approach gives more emphasis for a linkage between the world of education and world of work; this is what we always talk about as university-industry linkage.”

“Another important advantage of modular approach is its concern on linking learning activities with practical experiences. In our university, this is done in to ways: (1) linking theory with practice by using laboratories and demonstration rooms within the university; and (2) by assigning students to different nearby ... organizations/institutions.”
